12.30 – 14.00 Lunch

14.00 – 15.30 Policy Link Panel 1: Governing Global Markets

Chair: Marianne Dony

The crisis facing financial markets since 2008 highlighted the weakness of the structure of global financial governance. Faced with the globalization of financial markets, rules and institutions that monitor and regulate the activity of financial markets did not follow through. The panel will try to draw lessons from the crisis, suggesting paths for reforming governance at the European and global levels.

Speakers (tbc): Philippe Lefevre (BNB)

André Bruyneel (Université libre de Bruxelles)

Marco Becht (European Corporate Governance Institute)

Patrick Pearson (European Commission)

Jean Pisani-Ferry (BRUEGEL)

14.00 – 15.30 Policy Link Panel 2: Making Strategy for Europe: the EU and NATO

Chair: Sven Biscop

The EU adopted a report on the implementation of its European Security Strategy in 2008 and is now in the process of setting up new structures for external action, implementing the Lisbon Treaty. NATO is in the process of reviewing its 1999 Strategic Concept. This panel will bring together 2 practitioners, from the EU and NATO, and two academics, to discuss the process of strategy-making in both organizations, the challenges that their strategies need to address, and how strategy should be reflected in the institutions.

Speakers: Helga Schmid (tbc)

Jamie Shea

Sten Rynning

Jolyon Howarth

14.00 – 15.30 Policy Link Panel 3: Climate, Energy and Human Security

Chair: Sebastian Oberthür

Climate change, energy and human security are increasingly seen as interlinked in policy debates and are now firmly established as “high politics”. This panel will explore the challenges that arise from these issues. What are the major challenges for the EU on the way towards advancing the policy agendas of climate, energy and human security? Which tensions and policy conflicts arise and how can they be reconciled? Which steps does the EU have to take domestically to advance an integrated approach more broadly? How can and should the EU advance international policy discussions in these fields?

Speakers: Steven Everts (High Representative of the Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy) (tbc)
Jacqueline M. McGlade (European Environment Agency) (tbc)
Chad Damro (University of Edinburgh) (tbc)
